80th Anniversary: The Atomic Bomb

The world entered the nuclear age 80 years ago with the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. These documentaries preserve the voices of survivors, examine the decisions that led to this moment, and explore how these events continue to shape our world today.

Atomic Echoes: Untold Stories from World War II

MON AUG 4 | 9p

Two friends explore lasting trauma from Hiroshima and Nagasaki, examining how both Japanese survivors and American veterans still struggle today.

Atomic People

MON AUG 4 | 10p

The last surviving hibakusha (atomic bomb survivors) share their stories before their voices are lost forever.

The Atomic Bowl: Football at Ground Zero – and Nuclear Peril Today

TUE AUG 5 | 7p

The forgotten U.S. military football game played in Nagasaki just months after 80,000 perished there, with lessons for today's nuclear dangers.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE

Victory in the Pacific

TUE AUG 5 | 9p

The final year of World War II in the Pacific and the rationale for using atomic bombs, told through first-hand accounts from both sides of the conflict.

The Bomb

TUE AUG 19 | 9p

How America developed the nuclear bomb, how it changed the world, and how this most destructive invention continues to shape our lives today.

Emergent City

MON AUG 18 | 10p

In Brooklyn's Sunset Park, working-class residents facing rising rents and lost jobs clash with developers turning a waterfront manufacturing complex into an "innovation district." This film about a decade-long civic battle offers viewers a front-row seat to the public and private spaces where the city is shaped.

Stream Ken Burns' WWII Collection

This year marks 80 years since the end of World War II. Explore Ken Burns' definitive documentaries: The War chronicles America's complete WWII experience; The U.S. and the Holocaust examines the United States' moral response; Defying the Nazis celebrates heroic resistance; and The Roosevelts includes a lens on FDR's wartime leadership.

Stream these essential documentaries and discover more from America's master storyteller on the Cascade PBS app.
